

Almost Everything Starts on a Farm

If it wasn't for the farmer, we wouldn't have the good foods we eat.

Or fibers for the clothes we wear. Or leathers for our shoes.

Or the papers, inks and chemicals

that are so much a part of our everyday lives.

Maybe it's time we acknowledged the farmer's contribution to the good life we live.

We'll have that opportunity on . . .

All these things and more
start on a farm . . .

- wool, cotton yarns and
rugs
- cosmetics, soaps, resins.
- meats, fruits, vegetables,
cheese, milk, sugar,
cereals.
- chemicals,
pharmaceuticals.
- rubber, paint, inks,
papers.
