1974 upon graduation from Franklin & Marshall College, where he received a degree in Biology. Since coming to Weaver he has served as quality assurance inspector, and more recently as quality assurance supervisor trainee.

In his new position as quality assurance supervisor, Brown will be responsible for depart-mental inspection services and quality assurance programs.

Swain came to Weaver in 1972 as a product development technician after attending the University of Delaware. More recently he has held the position of processing development group leader.

In his new position, Swain will be responsible for supervising night shift.

Brown, joined Weaver in quality assurance operations.

Implement exhibits at Allentown

Farm implement exhibits have traditionally been one of the main attractions at a county fair, not only for farm people but their city cousins as well. This year's Allentown Fair, July 31 to Aug. 9 will restore this feature to the prominence it was given 20 years ago.

For more than a decade, there have been only two dealers displaying their wares. Fair officials, as part of the program to reemphasize the agricultural aspects of the fair, have contracted with three additional firms to help put on of the great variety of iman expanded show in 17,000 square feet of space adjacent to the Farmerama area in the west end of the grounds.

Agway, handling John Deere machines, and International Harvester, with Farmall, have made up the exhibit alone for some years. This year they will be joined by Beck Brothers, Emmaus R1, Ford; Leiser's, Inc., Nazareth Pike, Long, and C.J. Wondsidler, Quakertown R1, Allis-Chalmers.

Together, the five will provide a farm implement exhibit that may not be any bigger or better than the displays of a generation ago but bigger and more comprehensive than they have been more recently.

The show will serve a twofold purpose. It will give the farmer an opportunity to check out the relative merits plements to determine which is best for his needs. At the same time, urbanites can satisfy a natural curiosity about the brightly painted and sometimes awesome appearing pieces of machinery the uses of which they might still be puzzled about, even after examining them at close range. And, more importantly, the price tags such as $5,000 or $15,000 or $25,000 might give the layman a better understanding of what it costs to produce the crops so necessary to everyday
