farm wife has a flair

Paradise.

Joan is a member of Farm Women Society 21, Lancaster County. She has served as secretary and is now vice president. This society meets the second Thursday evening of each month in the home of the members in the Quarryville area. Mrs. Frank Aument is president of it. Joan is a member and for the past two years served on the board of Directors of the Oxford Research Club (Federated Women's Club). This year she will serve as chairman of the baking division for Fine Arts Day by the Federated Women's Clubs of Chester County, which event will be held in March of 1976. She is a Committee Woman for West Nottingham Township.

The Rohrers are members of Calvary Independent Church, Lancaster, and work with the Junior Church (4th-6th grades). Joan teaches at Daily Vacation Bible School, held there in the mornings one week in June.

Joan is very musical. She plays for Junior Church. She used to play for the adult Sunday School class and the church orchestra. She used to sing soprano in the church choir. She sang in McCaskey High School chorus and in their girls' trio that went to Ocean City, NJ. She played the piano for group singing for the Lancaster County Farm Women's convention last November.

Bob and Joan enter exhibits at the Southern Lancaster County Community Fair. Joan has received a number of ribbons for baked and canned goods and Bob likewise for soybean plants, barley, oats and soybean seeds. The children will enter vegetables this year. They help their mother in the garden.

Rohrers enjoy going places and doing things together as a family. They attend tractor pulls at the Buck and Kinzers this time of year. Last February they went to Vail, Colorado for skiing where they also saw President Ford's condominium. They went skiing at Vermont and on numerous slopes in Pennsylvania. They take their snowmobile along. The older children have tried skiing and enjoy the tractor pulls. Last winter they attended the Nationals in the PA Farm Show arena, Harrisburg, for the three days.

Joan loves to read. She reads novels, books from the best seller list and lots of other kinds of books. She buys paper back books and gets books from the Oxford Library.

She enjoys collecting antiques. One of her prized pieces is an old jelly cupboard that came from Bob's grandparents and another one is a brass bed from her father's family. They found a few in their house and have bought quite a few.

Mrs. Robert E. Rohrer, Nottingham R1, Chester Co., PA in front of her old kitchen fireplace, tries out a new recipe for cole slaw.

Joan says, "I started researching our farm history and I find that very interesting. I'm back as far as 1818. There was a blacksmith shop here."

She loves to cook and bake. Through this she entered a contest sponsored by the Farm Wife News magazine of Milwaukee, Wisconsin. She entered a Pick Up And Go Menu and won first place in the Rural Recipe Roundup picnic category. Her recipe for Quick Jambalaya aroused the interest of the judges because it is easy to prepare. Joan is accustomed to packing a lunch often for her husband to eat out in the fields. She gives here a seasonal recipe that goes with a dinner or stars in a luncheon:

CORN STUFFED TOMATOES 4 Servings

4 large firm ripe tomatoes
2 medium ears sweet corn, cooked and cut off the cob
¼ cup chopped green onions
one-third cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimento
½ teaspoon salt

---

3 tablespoons olive oil
1 tablespoon lemon juice or vinegar
1 small clove garlic, minced
Salt and freshly ground pepper to taste

Cut out tomato cores. Cut each tomato, not quite all the way through, into wedges. Spoon out and reserve centers. Invert tomato cups to drain; chill. Chop tomato pulp fine; drain. Mix chopped tomato, corn, onions, green pepper, pimento and salt. Combine remaining ingredients for dressing; pour over vegetables and mix well. Chill thoroughly. At serving time, spoon mixture into chilled tomato cups. Serve on salad greens. Pass mayonnaise.

"Here's a tasty way to use carrots and onions from the garden," says Joan.

CARROTS LYONNAISE

1 pound (6 medium carrots)
1 chicken bouillon cube, dissolved in ½ cup boiling water
¼ cup butter or margarine
3 medium onions, sliced
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
¾ cup water

Pare carrots and cut in julienne strips. Cook carrots in
