 are held annually at University Park. Participants from each county, who have earlier won local contests, travel to the Penn State campus with their leaders to match their skills and knowledge with con-

The archery team consisted of Susan Jones, high individual; Karl Daugherty, second; and Jeff Wise, third. The first-place dairy judging team consisted of Cindy Rutter, high individual; Leonard Greek, eighth, Cindy Knight, 11th, and Paul Knight.

In addition to these team wins, York County also had the first place consumerama team, as was reported in last week's issue. Other results for the activities may be found on pages 22 and 23 of the August 16 issue of Lancaster Farming.

testants from all over the state. This year more than 1,600 4-H'ers representing every county in the Commonwealth took part in the three-day event.

York County captured first place team wins in senior livestock judging, meats judging, dairy judging, and archery. What's more these teams all had the high individual of the contest, and in archery it was a clean 1-2-3 sweep.

Sharing honors in the blue ribbons meats judging team were Tim Beck, high individual; Linda Ebaugh, second; Tim Livingston, third; and Mark Cramer, tenth. Wayne Bankert was high individual on the senior livestock judging team which placed first. Others on the team were Kathy Sunday, third; Terry Dixon, fifth; and Nat Sheffer, seventh.
