

Living up to his name, Troubles the goat takes a nibble from a blooming geranium plant. A pygmy goat, Troubles stands about 18 inches high and is a favorite at the Funck's farm.

Down on the farm

Also special to view are Funck's collection of birds that include Silver and Gold pheasants, Rheas (the third largest bird in the world), Canadian geese, Egyptian geese and quail.

The Funcks have received license from the Game Commission for progeny permits and also have a menagerie license from the USDA to keep their animals for the public.

Along with his animals, Funck and his wife Polly also cater to arranged hayrides, a recreation often exciting and novel for city as well as country children.

"Sometimes it gets hectic," Funck explained, "and there are times when I wonder if I'll get my main work done, but in the long run I enjoy teaching the visitors about animal life and letting them see first hand just what nature provides for us to see."

There have been many occasions when the Funcks have given up their personal time to conduct tours and hayrides even though their own farm work had to be laid aside. But those times mean little compared to the satisfaction the children have expressed in visiting "Down on the Farm."

The August 30th edition of the Shindig at Cripple Creek will feature the Wilburn Brothers, a noted Country-Western Musical group which have been featured on their own television show for a number of years. Joining the Wilburn Brothers will be The Kings Country Men and Red Thomas and the Men of Note.
