

WHAT IS IT COSTING YOU TO MAKE 100 LBS. OF MILK?

Your Manuelle dealers think it is costing most farmers too much money for feed to make each 100 lbs. of milk. Check it out for yourself. How much hay or haylage do you feed a day? How much corn silage, and grain? How many special additives such as vitamins. minerals, and enzymes do you feed?

Here are a few examples of what IM-MUV-ALL dealers are doing for their customers.

Valuing hay at $80.00 per ton, corn silage at $20.00 per ton, ear corn at $80.00 per ton, and protein supplement at $200.00 per ton.

We do not insist on feeding soybean meal. We will balance any protein supplement into your ration.

We are using the average 12 cents a cow per day for mineral. Your mineral cost may be more or less depending on what you feed and how you fertilize your soil.

(You Bet You Work For Him)

He supplies fuel to power companies, who in turn sell you electrical energy to operate the equipment you need to stay in business.

How much you work for him is up to you. The power efficiency of your equipment determines how much of your money goes into his bank account

Ventilating fans use electrical energy to operate But only Vent-O-Matic "Watt-Watchers" tell you how much they use We have a test study of five manufacturers that compares efficiency, with all tests made in an AMCA approved laboratory

Fill in the coupon and mail it today. Let us show you how Vent-O-Matic could save you over one thousand dollars a year in power costs
