

Grain for Israel promised

WASHINGTON - Israel's import requirements, said the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz in talks with Israeli officials in Tel Aviv last month pledged full U.S. cooperation in trying to meet Israeli import needs for U.S. grain and soybeans that were set at around 1.7 million metric tons yearly for the next three years.

Israel looks to the United States for substantial quantities of grain, soybeans and soybean oil and recommended that trade targets in each commodity be established for the coming three years, with quantity goals to be reviewed annually by the two countries. He suggested approximate annual quantities of 400,000 metric tons of wheat, 660,000 tons of sorghum, 250,000 tons of corn, 380,000 tons of soybeans and 10,000 tons of soybean oil.

Secretary Butz, expressing appreciation for this clear indication of Israel's import requirements, said the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz in talks with Israeli officials in Tel Aviv last month pledged full U.S. cooperation in trying to meet Israeli import needs for U.S. grain and soybeans that were set at around 1.7 million metric tons yearly for the next three years.

In Washington, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Bell noted that the understanding with Israel is in line with the U.S. effort to get a better assessment of import needs of traditional U.S. customers in order to improve the ability of U.S. farmers to plan production to meet those needs.

Talk and Fly

When his pal told him the one about the sewing machine telling the cloth not to touch it or it would sue, the patient listener could only say "Do you wanna fly?" "Sure," was the answer "O K you stay here and wait while I go catch one for you"
