

Interstate District 7 officers elected for '76

By MELISSA PIPER
MOUNT JOY — During the annual business meeting for District 7 of the Interstate Milk Producers held here on Thursday, officers and delegates were elected for 1976.

Donald L. Hershey was elected president of the Donegal Local, with Arthur D. Wenger to serve as vice-president. Paul E. Garber was named secretary-treasurer. Delegates in the same local were Albert Breneman, Harold S. Brubaker and Luke F. Brubaker. Three alternate delegates were also elected and included Paul N. Brubaker, Kenneth Zurin and Ellwood Zell.

In the Lititz Local, Ray P. Bollinger was named president with Marvin Sauder receiving the vice-presidential post. Nelson E. Martin was elected secretary-treasurer. Two delegates were named for the Lititz area and Galen Crouse along with Earl C. Stauffer will serve in the posts. Alternate delegates were Clyde M. Buchen and Paul S. Horning.

With no further nominations from the floor, the slate of nominees from Lebanon County gained their offices without competition. Donald G. Hoffer was named president with Jay Melvin Brandt elected vice-president and John H. Hartman taking the secretary-treasurer's office. A. Ralph McCrone was elected as a delegate with Arthur Brandt to serve as an alternate.

Daniel Martin, area director for Interstate and president of the PennMarva Association, gave a report on the future prices for milk and noted that prices "had been at an all time high this winter."

Martin noted that the January base price was $10.96 for a 3.5 test milk which averaged $2.08 above the price in the same month last year.

"Our advertising campaigns have worked," the official explained, "as there has been a five percent increase in Class 1 sales over a year ago."

The Interstate producers also learned that the February price for Class I milk would be about $11.86 - the highest ever.

Keynote speaker for the day was Dr. Earl Cook, director of the Quality Control Laboratory in Southampton.

Cook related the need for strict cooperation between the producer, hauler and buyer to curb outbreaks of disease related to raw milk.

"Problems from milk have lessened quite rapidly over the past years," he noted, "but we still must maintain the best methods of sanitation and cooperation."

Cook labeled pasteurization as the "best insurance policy" against disease and pathogens in milk. "Pasteurization has really helped in getting good milk to our consumers."

"The process is costly, but is needed if we are to retain a good image."

The quality control director praised Interstate's members for having exhibited outstanding records of high quality milk but cautioned against becoming lax in everyday duties.

"Be sure that equipment is in good running condition and is able to handle your needs," Cook advised. "Don't wait until this summer to add milk house equipment when you can see it may be needed now."

Cook repeatedly warned the producers about using growth inhibitors without proper handling of the milk.

"If a cow is treated in one quarter, then you had better hold all of her milk," he stated. "The misuse of drugs can cause serious problems for everyone and it is better to lose a little milk now, than all your milk for a long time."

Cook ended his remarks by telling the producers to protect themselves and others by "locking milkhouse doors." "It probably sounds different," he noted, "but a lot can go on which even you may not be aware of."

"Milk house doors should be locked to keep others out and to protect your investment."
