

Vol. 21 No. 16

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, Feb. 28, 1976

$3.00 Per Year

Hog cholera hits eastern herds, federal quarantines imposed

By MELISSA PIPER

ANCASTER --- The swine ustry was jarred this ek when hog cholera, a hly infectious viral ease affecting that par-ular livestock species eastern seaboard.

As of publication time five herds in the Glouchester County area of New Jersey had been affected along with two herds in Massachusetts and one herd in Rhode y, was confirmed in Island. All counties affected several herds along the in these states had been Department of Agriculture quarantine by the USDA on Wednesday evening.

Last Saturday, (Feb. 28) the disease had been found in three herds in New Jersey involving about 5350 hogs. At that time the New Jersey placed under federal slapped a "hold order" on all swine movements within the state but when subsequent herds came down with the disease the federal quarantine quickly replaced

(Continued on Page 18)

Fertilizer situation described

By DIETER KRIEG unrealistic situation . . . this year we're in a

By DIETER KRIEG supplies of N, P, and K will ANCASTER — "There be adequate," a marketing a very real shortage of specialist from Chevron tilizer the last two or Chemical Co. told a group of ee years, and we were in a farmers here earlier this week.

Herb Roup, Chevron listic situation and representative, was one of two guest speakers at a dinner meeting sponsored by Chevron and P. L. Rohrer of Smoketown. Distribution is the problem fertilizer manufacturers and dealers are concerned with. According to Chevron spokesmen, as well as others from various companies across the nation, a shortage of railroad cars may develop. It was explained that this is particularly true since grain exports have and [Continued on Page 16]

GSYF name outstanding member

By DIETER KRIEG BLUE BALL - John Weaverland area has en named the outstanding received the recognition liquid manure system. He during that organization's and his sons have brought eaver, a dairyman from annual banquet, held here at the herd average up over the Fire Hall last week.

Weaver farms 130 acres of fat. A member of Eastern ung farmer of the Garden and milks 76 cows in a ot Young Farmers stanchion barn equipped his Pequea local as vice-sociation for 1975. He with pipeline milkers and president. The OYF winner competed against Robert Book, Bareville; William Fisher, East Earl; and Harold Musselman, New 15,000 pounds of milk and 580 Holland. Milk Producers, he serves Other awards handed out that evening went to out-[Continued on Page 20]

E-Town corn growers honored

By MELISSA PIPER RHEEMS - The first master. nnual banquet for the armers was held at the ening, with president,

Larry Garber, as toast- held during the summer. In Doebler's. Irvin Engle,

During the meeting, three lizabethtown Young members of the young R4, was named first place division and also captured farmer group ire Hall here last Friday recognized for their placings in the corn contest which was the corn silage competition, Marietta R1, was the second Don Mowrer, Elizabethtown were winner and received both an second place in the shelled award from the young corn contest. Engle received farm and s

place winner in the silage

Agriculture to be saluted March 22

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The nation's farmers, rural towns and agribusiness firms will observe American Agriculture Day on March 22, 1976.

Designed to promote better understanding of U.S. agriculture by consumers, elected officials and other nonfarm groups, American Agriculture Day is an opportunity for everyone connected with agriculture to explain its accomplishments, problems and opportunities to their city neighbors.

Planned, coordinated and sparked by members of the National Agri-Marketing Association (NAMA), Ag Day '76 is a nationwide "do-your-ownthing" celebration.

"From the response we've been getting, Ag Day

[Continued on Page 35]

Cartoon feature added

LANCASTER FARMING farm machinery dealer will regularly feature a rural brought him in direct contact humor cartoon called "Rural with the farmer. Route." Drawn by free-lance artist, Thomas Armstrong of Sellersville, Pa., this new feature is designed to tickle and refresh our hearts and minds. Armstrong is a 1955 Penn State graduate with a degree in animal science. He was a member of the an above average dislike for livestock judging team and had at one time been herdsman for one of the largest purebred Angus herds in the Readers will find the new East. Then eight years in feature on page 10.

Farm Commentaries

Farmers Almanac

Farm Calendar

Youth feature

Country Corner

Homestead Notes

Home on the Range

Classifieds

Beginning with this issue, agricultural business with a

Armstrong describes "Rural Route" as a cartoon which will feature a farm family, with the farmer as the main character." The farmer is an honest, hard working man with perhaps bureaucracy, red tape, and the interference by others in his chosen profession.

In this issue

	155UC
10	Life on the farm	55
	Berks DHIA	64
13	Bicentennial feature	68
14	Lebanon 4-H'ers	76
20	Kutztown FFA	77
42	Public Sale Register	78
	Chester DHIA	82
45	Sale Reports	107

Among those receiving special awards at the annual Garden Spot Young Farmers banquet ere, left to right, John Weaver - outstanding young farmer for 1975; Bill Fisher, first-place orn silage producer; Andrew Stoltzfus, a dual-winner for dairy achievement and corn for rain; and Earl Weaver, winner of the new varieties in corn contest.

E-town corn growers were recently honored during a young farmer dinner. Winners were (from left) Irvin Engle, Marietta R1, second place corn silage & shelled corn; Dale Hiestand, Bainbridge, R1, first place shelled corn and Don Mowrer, E-town R4, first place corn silage.