

Vol. 21 No. 20

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, April 3, 1976

$3.00 Per Year

Woodbine Holsteins win big HARRISBURG - A total of 347 head of registered Holsteins were shown before Judge John L. Morris, extension dairyman, University of Maryland at the 23rd Annual Pennsylvania State Holstein Show held here a week ago.

Selected as senior champion female and grand. champion of this year's show was Blue-Jay Jenket Maple, a three year old cow shown by Donald Hostetter, arkesburg, Pa. and James lepard, Holcomb, New ork. Following With: eserve champion honors ras Huntsdale Paula Black Eagle, a four year old cow from the herd of Meryl and Thomas Sheaffer, Carlisle, Pa. Judge Morris praised the quality of the class winners when selecting the champions. A senior yearling bull,

Mr. Gala Double M Jon Boy was named champion bull. He was exhibited by Alan Black of Martinsburg, Pa. The coveted premier breeder, and exhibitor award, 'based on points earned by high placing entries in the-individual classes, was bestowed upon Woodbine Holsteins, George M. Knight, Jr. and family of Airville, Pa.

The highly contested best three females class was captured by Huntsdale Stock Farms of Carlisle, Pa. This class recognizes the breeder who has bred and developed three top cows which make up this group class.

Four daughters

Miss Pennsylvania, Connie Harness; and the Pennsylvania Poultry Queen, Dawn Heisler, graced the annual fund raising banquet for the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation on Thursday night. In the center is Pennsylvania's Secretary of Agriculture, Raymond Kerstetter. With him are William Carlin, left, president of PPF, and John Hoffman, executive director of the organization.

Poultry banquet sets a record

Milk prices, future pondered

By DIETER KRIEG

LANCASTER — The 1976 annual fund raising banquet of the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation, held here at the Host Farm on Thursday evening, turned out to be the biggest event of its kind ever staged in the Northeast. The Federation had predicted up, but the actual turnout was 900. John Hoffman, PPF executive director and toastmaster for the evening, proclaimed that the roomful of people represented an entire industry.

were Miss Pennsylvania, the poultry business.

that 750 persons would show Connie Harness; the Pennsylvania Poultry Queen, Dawn Heisler; The Honorable Raymond Kerstetter, Pa. Secretary of Agriculture; and hundreds of representatives from the producer, processor, and On hand for the gala affair allied industry segments of Speeches were kept short during the evening, with most of the time spent in consuming a meal and being entertained by nationally known comedian Bob Lewis. Also on hand to entertain guests were Lewis' wife,

[Continued on Page 14]

Land-use legislation called for

HARRISBURG - Rep. Kenneth E. Brandt, R-Lancaster on Wednesday urged the Governor to sign legislation that would require that an agricultural impact statement be prepared before any of Pennsylvania's farm lands are taken in the construction of interstate highways.

Brandt, a prime sponsor of the bill, said not many people realize that hundreds of acres of prime Pennsylvania farm lands are ruined in the construction of interstate roadways.

"Each mile of highway destroys hundreds of acres of agricultural lands," he said. "Another 50 to 75 acres are consumed in the construction of each interchange on that highway. "As one can well see as a highway cuts through a county, hundreds of acres of prime, fertile agricultural lands are literally laid to waste."

Brandt said the bill (House Bill 219) would require that an agricultural impact statement, similar to an environmental impact statement, be drafted and submitted to a special committee set up to oversee the balance between highway building and the destruction of farm lands.

"These agricultural impact statements will be considered by a special seven man committee before the highway could be built," he added. "The committee will consist of the Director of the State Planning and Development office, the Dean of the College of Agriculture, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of Environmental Resources, and the Secretary of Transportation. "Two farmers appointed by the Governor shall also sit on the committee."

Paclamar Astronaut won the senior get of sire Class for Richard Curtis, Robert Kauffman, and Andrew Stoltzfus. The junior get of sire class was topped by Edward P. Karpa with four daughters of Zeldenrust Fond Memory.

The top produce of dam went to two daughters of Ri Co Peg Belle Boy Flo exhibited by Richard Curtis of Union City, Pa., and Debra Holler of Jamestown, Pa. The dam and daughter combination was headed by two cows owned by Providence Haven Holsteins, Inc., Fred Strouse and Assoc's., and Fair Hill Farms.

Morris selected the first place senior yearling, Pequea R Maple Heather shown by James Bowen of Wellsboro as the junior champion female. Edwin C. Todd of Spring City, Pa. exhibited the reserve junior champion.

This show is one of the [Continued on Page 15]

Editor's Note: The following is taken from an address given by Herbert Wessel, president of the Maryland the higher prices, and Cooperative Milk Producers Cooperative. The occasion was the annual meeting held recently.

COCKEYSVILLE, Md. - Recently the milk prices have them get together, the result can be disastrous. risen. The rise is well deserved and much needed. Let's hope 1974 situation when the prices rose rapidly and two things have now peaked and the curve is starting down. then happened -

1. Consumer resistance resulting in fewer sales because of

2. Increased production - also from the higher prices. Either of these in itself can hurt prices but when the two of

Since prices bottomed out in August 1974, they have been that history does not repeat itself and we have a re-run of the steadily rising - even higher than any of us predicted. They

[Continued on Page 18]

53

57

62

70

105

Dairy production awards given

By DIETER KRIEG SMOKETOWN - The fifth annual Pennfield Dairy Day Program was held here recently with the highlight being the presentation of awards to owners of top dairy herds and - or high individual cow records. Leading the pack of 34 dairymen who were Farm Calendar Nixnutz's Corral recognized for having herd Life on the farm averages of more than 17,000 Classifieds pounds of milk per cow was Country Corner Sinking Springs Farm, Inc., Homestead Notes of York. Herman Stebbins, Home on the Range manager, was on hand to Womens' Calendar receive a special plaque and Textile feature plate. The Sinking Springs herd of 67 registered Holsteins chalked up an average production of 19,823 pounds of milk and 785 of butterfat.

Clarence and Stauffer's Sunny Craft Farm, Ephrata, was recognized for having shown the highest increase within one year. Their herd of 34

In this issue

46

- Poultry address Schuylkill DHIA 10
- 10 Berks conservation 10, 56
- Starter fertilizers 21
- Bicentennial farm 42
- Chester DHIA 42
- Lancaster DHIA 44
- Public Sale Register 44
 - Sale Reports

Earl Holsteins most recently averaged 14,827 pounds of milk and 583 of fat representing an increase of 4,196 for milk and 163 for fat. More than 100 individual cow records were called off during the 3-hour long presentation. The 21-page program listed records of cows and herds from many parts of Pennsylvania and 61 portions of Maryland. Completing the list of herds which exceeded an

73 average of 17,000 pounds of 78 97

[Continued on Page 14]

Kent Shelhamer is among those listed as one of the primary sponsors of the bill, and since he's the gentleman whom Gov. Shapp would like to see as the state's next Secretary of Agriculture, Brandt says the Governor may be receptive to signing the bill.

The measure has passed the House by a 172-0 margin and next goes to the Senate where legislators are likely to take a serious look at it.

"I urge the Governor to sign this bill as soon as possible," he said.