WASHINGTON, D.C. - A (ATC) - has been formed, the new non-profit trade first and only organization association - The designed to serve the Agricultural Trade Council common interests of all segments of the U.S. agricultural exporting community. ATC, located here in the Nation's Capital, seeks its members from all groups comprising the huge agricultural community involved in exporting - the producers, processors and distributors of agricultural commodities; manufacturers and distributors of agricultural equipment, implements, food machinery and supplies; and from those firms and associations providing services to the export community.

According to the new association's Chief Executive Officer Peter J. T. Nelsen, ATC's primary purpose is to assist the country to expand current markets and to identify and develop new ones. Through an intensive research, information and government relations program, ATC will also seek to achieve the best possible economic and political climate for the free flow of agricultural products throughout the world. Because ATC's membership will represent the entire spectrum of the agricultural community - both large and small firms - it will be able to speak with a stronger, more effective voice to Congress and to the regulatory agencies than can organizations representing only one segment.

Informational brochures on the new association are now available. Firms or individuals desiring more information on ATC, its activities and policies, are urged to contact: The Agricultural Trade Council, 1028 Connecticut Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

by the U S Fish and Wildlife Service in Washington following annual surveys of breeding populations. States then select dates for seasons within the federal framework Pennsylvania waterfowl seasons will not be established until late August or early September. The Game Commission cannot set waterfowl seasons until after the federal government draws up its framework, which is not completed prior to late August at the earliest.

This year the Pennsylvania season for doves will open at 12 noon on Wednesday September 1, and will close at sunset on Tuesday, November 9.

Daily shooting hours for doves will be from 12 noon until sunset. The daily limit will be 12, with a possession limit of 24 after the first day of the season.

The daily bag and possession limit is 25 on sora and Virginia rails, singly or in the aggregate of the two species. The daily limit on gallinules is 15, with not more than 30 in possession after the first day of the season.

In 1976 the snipe season will open on Saturday, October 16, and continue through Saturday, December 18. The daily bag limit on Wilson's or jacksnipe is eight, with a possession limit of 16.

The season for woodcock also opens on Saturday, October 16, and will continue through Saturday, December 18. This year's daily bag limit on woodcock remains at five, with a possession limit of 10 after the first day.

Shooting hours for rails, gallinules, snipe and woodcock are from a half hour before sunrise until sunset except on the opening day of the general small game season, Saturday, October 30, when there will be no hunting for any wild birds or wild animals in the state before 9 a.m.

A federal migratory bird hunting stamp (duck stamp) is not required to hunt doves, rails, gallinules, snipe or woodcock.

This year's season on sora and Virginia rails and gallinules will coincide with the dove season, opening on September 1 and closing on November 9. There is no open season on king and clapper rails in Pennsylvania.

Urbanites subjected to seemingly endless crescendo of jack hammers, pneumatic drills, subways, sirens, airplanes and automobile traffic face a noise pollution health threat as serious and far reaching as air and water pollution, officials of the Beltone Crusade for Hearing Conservation report.

Although public indignation with unwanton noise dates back to the Roman Empire when citizens complained about noisy chariot riders, it was not until 1972 that federal regulations were passed seeking to limit the rising clamor that characterizes many urban areas.
