

Colored breeds show in rain at Solanco

Lois Wanner, Narvon R2, had the grand champion Brown Swiss, and Lee Ferguson, Kirkwood R1, had the reserve grand champion in this breed. Showed here is Lois' four-year-old grand champion, Leon A Beauty Sharon

William Arrowsmith's six-year-old Jersey cow took the grand champion title on Thursday at the Solanco Fair. This is her second year for winning at the Fair, and along with her grand champion title, she was also best udder of the show.

QUARRYVILLE — While the Holstein show at the Solanco Fair enjoyed fairly nice weather, the colored breeds weren't as lucky. Drenching rain made the show a little crowded and uncomfortable as all the animals crammed under the tents where the judging took place.

Nevertheless, exhibitors and judges withstood the unpleasant working conditions and approximately 75 animals were evaluated during the afternoon.

Ayrshires
Warren Schmuck, Peach Bottom R2, attained his goal of proving that his Ayrshires were just as good as Holsteins by taking nearly every top place in the Ayrshire breed. He had first place in the junior yearling, two-year-old, three-year-old, aged cow, best three females, best udder, dairy herd, and dam-daughter classes. Along with Karen Schmuck, he also had first place produce of dam.

Kristina Esbenschade had the first place junior calf, and Anita Brommer had the first place senior calf. The top placing senior yearling and intermediate calf were shown by Karen Schmuck.

Jerseys
Three families dominated the top placings in the Jersey breed. Maureen Hough had first place in the intermediate calf, and senior calf, while George and Doris
