

Judy's horse is a grey American Saddlebred. Although Judy has won many ribbons with the animal, it took a lot of hard work and patience to reach the point where she could show him after last Spring's mishap.

Judy Anderson learned to work with others in 4-H

By JOANNE SPAHR
LANCASTER, Pa - Judy Anderson, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr and Mrs Charles Anderson, 1440 Country Club Drive, has won at least 70 ribbons in her five years of belonging to 4-H horse clubs. Yet, while she is undoubtedly proud of her accomplishments, that topic, rarely, if ever, comes up in a conversation with her unless she's specifically questioned about it. Instead, she talks willingly and enthusiastically about the teen leadership program she is currently involved in, the horse bowl team she has been quizzing on for the past few years, and her veterinary science project which she is "hooked on."

people - about working with people," remarks the open and outgoing teenager.

"Most of all, I had to learn how to work with the younger members," she grins. "At first I talked down to them, and then I realized that I couldn't do that and be a good leader."

This is Judy's third year at being a teen leader, and by this time she has moved up to the level where she assumes a full leadership role in the club. And, after growing up in the 4-H system, she knows how valuable her position is to the younger 4-H'ers.

"I started out in a big club," she explains, "and, it just wasn't the same as the smaller clubs I've belonged to since then. We had no teen leaders, and the older leaders were nearly run ragged trying to get to us all."

As a result, the club had less to offer her on a personal, one to one, basis. But, now that she is a member of the Easy Riders 4-H Horse Club, which has a membership of only eight, she is able to give and get more individual attention and has branched out into a new area of interest - veterinary science.

"You could say 4-H has influenced my career choice," says the dark-haired young lady, "because I had always wanted to be a trainer, and now I don't." After a laugh about her another Fair and parade come up, it has to be redecorated all over again.

All in all, it is a lot of work, even for four people who basically put it together at first. Besides Janie and Lois, Mr. and Mrs. James Kreider, Quarryville and Linda Kreider helped.

"But, the work was a lot of fun, and it was all worthwhile if we can get our point across," says Janie.

Both Lois and Janie make the point that they feel more farmers organizations should try this project. Besides the hard work and fun, it is a rewarding way to actively take part in a parade and get a point across at the time.
