

Poultryman honored

This year, the topic of the program will be on cutting up and deboning turkey, however, Shaub is uncertain whether an actual demonstration will be presented or whether a slide show, only, will be shown.

Other programs the Association has been involved with since Shaub became president were food booths at the Ephrata and New Holland Fairs, and more recently, a display at the Park City Agriculture promotion. Shaub spent every day in the mall except for one evening.

Jay Irwin, County agent, lauded these group activities when he gave a committee report during the business meeting.

"This group has a really active board that has a lot of fun, but gets things done," said Irwin.

He noted that, among other things, the education committee has had meetings on poultry health, opportunities in poultry rearing, and broiler and turkey management.

Irwin also spoke about the public relations effort at Park City and the importance of poultry promotion to the industry. He noted that the 1976 poultry queen, Vicki Sherick, has done much for the group by her appearances in parades, at banquets, and in the Park City effort.

Walter Shaub, president of the Lancaster County Poultry Association, receives a plaque of appreciation for his efforts from Stanley Musselman, Quarryville, farm representative from National Central Bank and a member of the board of directors.

The business meeting was also the time to elect members to the board of directors. Each year, four new board members who will serve a three-year term are chosen. Those either reelected or chosen for the first time were Stanley Musselman, Quarryville, John R. Huber, Jr., Lititz, Harold S. Musselman, New Holland, and Martin K. Pflieger, Manheim.

The majority of the dinner meeting, however, was devoted to fellowship and entertainment. Faye Stoner, who stayed in Germany for six months as part of the International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) presented her slide presentation to the group, who was one of her sponsors. The final entertainment for the evening was a barber shop quartet named the Lanco Lad's. Following their presentation, door prizes and centerpieces were given out.
