

Milk awards distributed at York Co. dairy day

DOVER, Pa. - York County's annual Dairy Day meeting was held on February 17 at the Dover Fire Hall. Jointly hosting the event were the Extension Service and Atlantic Breeders Cooperative.

Dairy Specialist Harvey Shaffer of the Penn State Extension Service, opened the morning program with a presentation on reproduction, "Is Breeding One Of Your Problems?"

The second portion of the dairy activities centered on another crucial problem of the industry. "Mastitis -

Does It Take $2,000 Profit From You?" was the question put to dairymen by Larry Hutchinson. The Penn State Extension Veterinarian detailed methods of mastitis detection and recommended control procedures.

A movie produced by the Atlantic Breeders Cooperative, "How Young Sires Are Proven," was featured during the afternoon. Several awards were presented by the cooperative to high milk-production herds in the county.
