However, these were not the only displays available for shoppers to ogle at. There were 16 exhibits, all of which won an award of some type.

The awards for displays were broken down into five categories— foods, general, crafts, horse, and agriculture.

The first place winner in the foods division was the Mount Joy Busy Bakers. Their display told of eating a balanced diet, which includes foods from the four food groups — meat, dairy, fruits and vegetables, and breads and cereals.

Second place in the foods division was the Ephrata Teen 4-H, and third place went to the Mountville Community 4-H Club.

Demonstrations were performed daily at the 4-H Expo in the Park City Mall last week. On Friday afternoon these four girls (from left to right) Sue Kleinfelter, Lititz; Kelly Landis, Lititz; Sue Eshelman, Lititz; and Martha Gregory, the teen leader of the Brickerville Community Club, demonstrated making corn husk flowers.

Pretty plants

"Or," Debbie said, "only fertilize in the Spring, Summer, and Fall with regular fertilizer—house plants don't require much."

She also discussed in detail the care of several different house plants. The spider plant was one of these.

"Spiders are one of the closest plants to the human body," she said. "They produce babies in much the same manner as women do. The babies develop on shoots which are similar to an umbilical cord," she explained. These babies draw nourishment from their mother plants the same as a fetus draws from its mother.

In conclusion, she stated, "With a lot of light, a little water, and some care, everyone can grow green."
