Boll home features rustic kitchen and bath

Editor's Note: The subject of the following story is one of five homes which will be part of the Lancaster County Farmers' Association Heritage Trail Tour on April 20. For further information on times and price of the tour, refer to the article dealing with that information in this week's Lancaster Farming.

MANHEIM, Pa. — Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Boll, Manheim R2, have the kind of kitchen in their home that housewives and teenage cooks covet.

"The kitchen is my favorite room in the house," smiles the quietly amiable Mrs. Boll.

The work area of the combination kitchen and family room is done in elegant shades of burnt orange and brown, accented by brick. The two most outstanding characteristics of this visually soothing, spacious area are the pole lamp connected to a centrally located work counter, and the wooden shingles which cover the range hood and pantry roof.

"I got the idea for the pole lamp from a brochure," Mrs. Boll explains, "and I decided that I would like to have it in my kitchen."

She also decided, without the aid of a brochure, that she needed a centrally located working area for making pies, chopping vegetables, and doing other cooking preparations. So, the builders planned for the work area and situated it across from the sink.

"I use this particular counter more than I do the other working space," she says with a smile. It features a grill and a built-in cooling surface.

The kitchen also features a pantry, microwave oven, range, and double oven.

To complete the rustic effect she has created with the shingled roof and lamp, Mrs. Boll chose to finish the wall areas around the stove and oven with brick. And, the ceiling also features exposed beams which match the beaded inset doors on the cupboards and pantry. These cupboards are made of oak

Keeping with the rustic style of the kitchen, the Bolls separated the bathroom with this brick and pole divider.
