Bull testing nominations accepted

HARRISBURG --Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Kent Shelhamer announced nominations are now being accepted for the 1977-78 Pennsylvania Bull Testing Program. The test is sponsored by the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture and is conducted at the Meat Animal Evaluation Center located on the Penn State University campus.

Shelhamer said that bulls born between October 1, 1976 and April 15, 1977 are eligible for this Fall's test. They must have a type score of 12 or higher and an adjusted 205 day weight of 475 or 525 pounds depending on the breed. The bulls must also have an adjusted 205 day ration of 100 or higher.

First choice in the testing program is given to Pennsylvania producers. If open space remains, then out- copy of the Bull Testing of state bulls will be accepted until the pens are full.

Shelhamer said that sale prices for performance tested bulls over the past few years show that people are willing to pay more for a bull that has a good honest performance rating. "If we look at the Angus bulls that sold this past year," Shelhamer noted, "bulls with a final Index Ratio below 100 averaged $475 per bull while those bulls with a final Index Ratio above 105 averaged $807 each.

The program is designed to provide information into improvement of the breed, Shelhamer said, and both large and small producers can participate and have their bulls compared under similar conditions.

The deadline nominations is Aguust 15, 1977. Any person wanting a NORRISTOWN, Pa. -Dried apples, apricots and banana chips along with corn and other dried vegetables are appearing on the market. Campers and back-packers are finding them convenient, others enjoy them.

There is interest in how to dry vegetables and fruits at home. Penn State Extension home economists will have a demonstration on how and a discussion of safe practices for drying foods on Wednesday, July 20, 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. at the 4-H Center, Snyder Road, Lansdale, Pa.

The leaflets available at the meeting will show how to construct trays for drying in the oven and directions for making a dryer using electric lights. There will be an exhibit of dried foods and a demonstration of making fruit leathers.

Everyone is welcome and there is no fee or preregistration required.

PARK RIDGE, Ill. - The recipes specially developed for this leaflet. From the kidillustrated cover to the instructions on "How to peel a hard-cooked egg," "Kids in the Kitchen is designed and written at a level to which children can relate.

All the recipes have been child-tested for appeal and ease of preparation, and combine some child-appeal regulars - like bologna, hotdogs, pizza - with that nutrition favorite, eggs. The recipes range the menu with beverages, sandwiches, main dishes and snacks, including step-by-step instructions for frying and hard-cooking eggs.
