Summer

Home Economics 4-H club she took traditional sewing and cooking projects and also learned crocheting and knitting.

She is now having the opportunity to pass on her crocheting skills by teaching two adult classes. She said it has been fun teaching the classes, "Because the people really put forth an effort. They want to learn and that makes it more enjoyable." Her own crocheting began when she was in junior high school and a neighbor taught her the basics so that she could make an afghan.

It is not surprising that Barb enjoys any free time activity which she can do "with my hands." She likes crafts, especially macrame, and she said, "I sew as much as I can squeeze in. I sew for myself and for my relatives." She has one sister and one brother. Other free time activities include swimming and snowmobiling.

Barb grew up on a beef cattle farm, but said her knowledge of Extension work comes mainly through 4-H.

"Living on a farm sure helped me gain practical experience," she laughs, and adds, "I always help out in the kitchen when I'm needed."

Barb says her job is "to help Letie and Karen." One of her first duties was to act as chaperone for the 4-H'ers at 4-H Club Congress at Penn State. She said, "It was an experience. I was glad to have the opportunity now since I didn't go as a 4-H'er."

In addition to her work with dress review and demonstration days, Barb is now working hard with the consumerama team which will compete at 4-H State Days in August. She explains that these team members learn "how to be better consumers and to know what is best to purchase for the price and the purpose for which it will be used." This year there are four areas of study, and the 4-H'ers must learn all they can about the consumer item in each area. They are studying back packs, drip coffee makers, wrist watches under $50 and smoke detectors. To get information Barb says she visits the library and studies company literature.

She will also be involved with the Fair, assisting with exhibits and helping the judges as needed.

A graduate of Annville-Cleona High School in 1974, Barb keeps active in college. She is a member of the Alpha Sigma Alpha social sorority, Kappa Omicron Pi, a home economics honorary society, the Mountie Marching band, Campus 4-H and the Panhellenic Council.

Barb said "The biggest advantage of the job is that I can expand my knowledge as I am working. There is always something new to learn, and I really enjoy learning."

THE ENERGY ANSWER (PROPOSED)

HERE'S AN ANSWER - A new home being constructed is designed to save energy and money. It puts the solar water heater in the attic, adds more insulation to exterior walls and ceiling, provides for more attic ventilation to assist air conditioning. It's expected to cut utility costs $175 a year.
