

FFA judging winners announced, Ephrata wins title for sixth time

BROWNSTOWN - Winners of various FFA judging contests were announced here at the Vo-Tech School on Wednesday evening during a meeting of Lancaster County's teachers for vocational agriculture. The contests in question were held at fairs in the county last month.

FFA students from each of Lancaster County's schools which offer the vo-ag program were represented in the competition. They competed on both an individual and team basis.

Taking the team title for the sixth year in a row, were students from the Cloister FFA Chapter, Ephrata.

They won in divisions for freshmen, as well as upperclassmen. In the senior category, Ephrata's 55 competing vo-ag students averaged 467.48 points for first place. The tally for the junior contest was an average of 575.3 points for 34 competing students.

Rounding out the list of placings for school averages among upperclassmen were New Holland, 450.41 points on 58 students; Solanco, 445.77 points on 60 students; and Penn Manor, 436.2 points on 65 students. Further placings included, in order: Manheim, Warwick, Lampeter-Strasburg, and Pequea Valley.

On the roster of school averages for freshmen, Ephrata was trailed, in order, by New Holland with 569.4 points on 98 students; and Penn Manor with 565.6 points on 55 students. Manheim placed fourth, followed by Lampeter-Strasburg, Warwick, Solanco, and Pequea Valley.
