the farmers voted to support the continued use of drugs in combating threats to animal health.

Policy directed at the area of income supported the minimum wage for farm labor—a reduced wage scale for workers under 18 and coverage of workmen's compensation on a prorated basis according to wages.

The recommendation of a graduated income tax, as opposed to a flat percentage, was the first of several tax-oriented policy directives. Eliminating tax-free business holdings by churches and other groups was also supported. To help ease the inheritance tax burden, members adopted policy which would allow a wife to show contribution to the farm estate through her labor, and to drop from 1976 Estate Tax legislation capitol gains taxes on appreciated value of property transferred by reasons of the owner's death.

Recommendations adopted at the county meeting will be incorporated with those from other areas across the state in writing policy for the entire Pennsylvania organization.
