Tom Claycomb, Martensburg, PA
Farming 200 plus acres, Mr. Claycomb has stacked over 600 stacks of hay and stover. Why did he buy an Owatonna stacker? Two big reasons—less loss of hay as feed and no storage needed.

Earl Boyer, Berlin, PA
The importance is convenience—no help is needed and when the hay is stacked, you're finished. "We are able to stack at least one day earlier than we could with a baler."

Ralph & Doug Rimmey, Centre Hall, PA
Custom operators as well as farming their 400 acre farm, this father and son team had to have a one man operation hay system. The Owatonna Stacker was the answer. The need for more variation in moisture in their hay also made them choose Owatonna.

ROTOR FLAILS — There are 40 rotor flails or "paddles" in the pickup system. You can handle hay crops or stover without making adjustments or buying a special stover kit. Just jump on your tractor and go.

PUSH-OFF SYSTEM — Front of the stacker bed tilts up and a hydraulic cylinder pushes the stack off to unload. No more "stuck" stacks. No chains to pull them apart. And, no sprockets, clutches, belts or pulleys to wear out.
