Strawbridge's hogs place again

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — In a swine show open to entries from all over the world, an animal shown by John Strawbridge, Stewartstown, Pa., was named the grand champion over all breeds and crosses of the North American Livestock Exposition carcass show. Strawbridge also showed the grand champion truckload of that carcass show, as well. In the individual show, Strawbridge's animals competed against 177 other entries, and out of the top 30 placings, five belonged to the York County breeder. Along with the grand champion, Strawbridge took the third, a 14th 18th, and 29th placings. The grand champion had a length of 32 inches, back fat of .35, a 7.6 loing, eye area, and 67.18 per cent lean. The champion truckload had an average of 62.26 per cent lean, 32.7 inches of length, .55 fat depth, and 7.2 loin eye area. The sire of the grand champion hog was Iron Horse 73-3, one of Strawbridge's most consistent sires. Ironhorse also sired the record breaking $100 per pound grand champion market hog at the Eastern National Livestock Show and grand champion carcass at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition. In the champion truckload, Ironhorse was sire of three while remaining three-hogs sired by S.B. Kilm... another one of Strawbridge's top boars.

xxx The North American badger is the animal kingdom's most efficient digging machine, according to National Wildlife magazine. An eager badger can tunnel its way out of sight in only a minute or two.
