Truck owners called to attention

HARRISBURG - Rep. Noah W. Wenger, R-Lancaster, urges Pennsylvania truck owners to immediately become familiar with the state's new laws on truck weights in order to avoid costly fines and dangerous driving situations.

Wenger said he can provide truck owners with a brochure entitled "Is Your Truck Weight Legal?" He said owners can receive the pamphlet by writing him, Rep. Wenger, P.O. Box 109, House of Representatives, Main Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pa. 17120.

The Pennsylvania State Police and Department of Transportation are distributing brochures to the trucking industry and are making them available at the interstate highway roadside rests and county maintenance buildings.

"This pamphlet provides an outline of weight limits established in the new vehicle code which took effect on July 1, 1977," Wenger said.

"PennDOT and the State Police initiated a cooperative truck-weight enforcement program throughout the Commonwealth on August 29, 1977.

"There has been a network of permanent scales and mobile teams of State Police and certified technicians set up state-wide.

"Equipment utilized in the program will be the most modern and efficient in the United States, permitting a minimum of "down time" for truckers throughout the weighing process.

"This brochure contains answers to many questions for which even professional truckers, who are basically aware of most limits, may not realize. It includes a detailed weight and fine schedule for violations of gross weight restrictions."

Wenger said the goal of the strict enforcement of the new weight limits for trucks is to make the highways safer for all motorists and help reduce highway maintenance costs.
