Strength tested in horse pulling contest

By KENDACE BORRY
HARRISBURG -- A capacity crowd was on hand at the Farm Show Wednesday evening to watch the horse pulling contest held in the large arena. Eleven teams weighing under 3200 lbs. competed in the lightweight division and twelve teams over that weight competed on the heavyweight level.

Al Dodge, Jr., from Susquehanna County, won the lightweight division, with his pair of horses pulling 3250 lbs. top weight. The two horses, Pat and Bill, having a combined weight of 3169 lbs. made the pull the required 27½ ft. their first try.

This was Dodge's third appearance at the Farm Show in the horse pulling contest. Besides working with draft horses, he also races and trains quarter horses.

Second place in the lightweight class went to the Iseman Brothers, Rural Valley, Armstrong County. His team, Tom and Jim a pair of geldings weighing 3163 lbs. pulled the 3250 lb. weight 5 ft. 4 in.

Glenn Stalker, Butler County, took third place, with his team of horses pulling 3000 lbs. 14 ft. 5 in.

In the heavyweight division, Leo Zandi, Sheffield, Warren County, captured top prize, pulling 25 lbs. easily on their first try. His team Prince and King, a pair of five year old geldings, together weigh 3800 lbs. Zandi, a veteran in horse pulling contests, claimed he had been driving horses for over 50 years.

Second place winner in the heavyweights went to Stan Lepley, Myersdale, Somerset County, who pulled the 3250 lb. weight 19 ft. on his best try. The farmer's team consisted of Bill and Jim, a pair of eight year old chestnut geldings.

The Campbell Brothers, West Sunbury, Butler County, took third place, pulling the 3250 lbs. weight 17

ft. 3 in. Driven by Bill Patton, the team consisted of Toby and Pat, an eight year old sorrel gelding and 7 year old black gelding.

Judge for the event was Paul Wass, Indiana, Pa., with Jim Gallagher, Penn State, acting as superintendent.
