won both top places for the March class and Mrs. Mummert did likewise in the April show. Wessner had the champion and Mrs. Mummert the reserve champion.

Wessner and Mrs. Mummert continued their duel in gilt classes, with Mrs. Mummert coming out on top each time, thus enabling her to effectively shut the competition out of the champion's circle. Wessner had to settle for reserve junior and reserve grand champion honors.

Shelly Bankert continued to add laurels to her collection when the barrow show got underway. She won the lightweight and mediumweight contest, while Mrs. Mummert exhibited the best lightweight pair of barrows. Wessner scored a victory with his heavyweight entry and was second among lightweight singles competition. Miss Bankert had her entries selected as champion while Wessner filled the reserve slots.

POLANDS

Jim Parlett and Harlan Wessner scored the most points in this show as the two contestants switched back and forth with their leads of various classes. Parlett showed the champion boar and Wessner had the reserve champion.

In female classes of competition, a third competitor claimed the spotlight from time to time. He was J.E. Lanus, owner of the champion sows and contender for some of the top honors in the gilt classes.

Gilt competition went as follows: January gilt - Harlan Wessner first and second; February gilt - Jim Parlett, Harlan Wessner; March gilt - Parlett, Lanus; April gilt - Parlett, Wessner. Junior and reserve junior champion gilts, James Parlett. Grand champion, Parlett; reserve grand, Lanus.

In the barrow segment of the show, Wessner had both the champion and reserve champion. He won both top places in the lightweight class. Parlett and Lanus placed first and second, respectively, in the mediumweight and heavyweight categories.

DUROCS

Rodger Bankert of Red Lion and Calvin Lazarus of Whitehall shared the high honors, although significant competition also came from Mrs. Harold Mummert of Seven Valleys and Tom Innerst of Red Lion.

Lazarus exhibited both the champion and reserve champion boar and the senior champion female which was later chosen as reserve grand champion. The grand champion female of the show was exhibited by Rodger Bankert, who also had the champion and reserve champion junior pigs. In the barrow contest, Bankert edged Lazarus for the top honors.

Here's how it went, class by class: January boar - Lazarus, Mummert; February boar - Lazarus, Innerst; March boar - Bankert, Lazarus; April boar - Bankert, Bankert.
