

Champions named at Arabian horse show

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania equestrians did well in the Arabian horse judging at the 22nd annual Keystone International Livestock Exposition at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg, taking three champion and two reserve champion titles.

Robert Swinker, Brownsville, Fayette County, won the junior champion colt honors with "Pro," a two-year-old. The reserve junior champion colt, two-year-old "Gwyd Iron," was shown by Harry Salvatore, Clearfield, Clearfield County.

Frank Desiderio, Chester, New Jersey, took the grand champion stallion and champion senior stallion honors with an over-four-year-old, "MHR Port Barbados." Showing "Kloi Sinay," also of the four-years-or-older, Steve Eldridge, Colchester, Connecticut, won the reserve grand champion stallion and reserve senior champion stallion honors.

Two Pennsylvanians took top honors in filly judging.

John Coldiron, Oxford, Chester County, won the junior champion filly honor with "SH Boston Tea," a two-year-old. The reserve junior champion filly title went to James Bachman, Manheim, Lancaster County, with his yearling filly, "SAF Bint Fadadena." The champion gelding of the show, "Highland Rap-pee," from the four-years-or-older class, was exhibited by Helen Cross, East Lansdowne, Delaware County. The reserve champion gelding honor went to Ann Peterson, Lake Hopatcong, New Jersey, with "Dear Rad," also in the four-years-or-older class.

The show's champion mare, "VA Natasha," was shown by Richard Taylor, Severne Park, Maryland. "Natasha" was from the four-years-or-older class also. The reserve champion mare, in the same age class, was exhibited by Joseph LoRe of Saddle River, New Jersey.

The Arabian Versatility Award went to Martin Kleiner, Lebanon, Lebanon County, with "A M Selfra Sun."
