each other with almost decorator planning.

I winced. The almostfifteen-year collection of household necessities back home was painful by comparison.

Our kitchen cupboards are filled with a matchless, priceless set of Early Farmhouse Mixed-Chipped-Cracked.

This collection came about because of my chronic affliction, "break-itis."

We drink beverages from glasses that depict "Milk Is A Natural," ole buddy Ronald McDonald and the Hamburglar, and a scattering of pieces with a vague history.

On the cuphangers are three cups of mix-n-match supermarket specials, two large, heavy-duty mugs (one chipped from too many trips to the barn), and two that proclaim allegiance to the Ohio State Buckeyes. (Fellow Penn State fans, forgive me-I got' em on sale.).

Mixing and serving bowls that grace our shelves range from long-ago wedding gift survivors to garage sale specials to an assortment of sturdy plastics-which refuse to break but collapse when put in a dishwasher. Plastics have been relegated to the top shelf.

Pots and pans do match. Well, partly anyway. They all have a dent in the same side. Except for the two that have look-alike broken handles.

Plates come in a variety of integrated darks and lights, with a couple of renegades left from our first-married "good set."

While this beloved assortment lacks grace, style and elegance, I suppose it goes with everything. No. On second thought it doesn't go with anything. Who cares?

ADJUSTABLE THERMOSTAT - NO ELECTROCUTION DANGER Many times customers have said it costs less to heat with gas and do not have to worry about electrocution it is a proven fact that it costs less to heat air than it does to heat water. We have done just that very thing with an electric space heater. Tests show that it costs 30 to 50 per cent less to heat a Red Top than competitive brands. We have also taken the worry out of electrocution as our unit does not touch the tank. It is with great pride that we say we have not had so much as one electrocution in 11 years. Test our competition against that record You need not be an electrician or an engineer to remove the heater for service. HEAT UNIT DOES NOT TOUCH TANK Residues do not bake on tank
