VOL. 24 No. 🇳

Lancaster Farming, Saturday, December 30, 1978

$6.00 Per Year

978 was a good year By DIETER KRIEG opinions shared by a number was a very good year for the LITITZ — The year that's American farmer, and while of Lancaster Farming's ending was a good one, say readers this week. Their he's optimistic about the most farmers in eastern only complaint is that costs future, he admits that the Pennsylvania, and they're especially for machinery overall state of the economy looking for about the same could lead to some hard and parts - are too high. kind of situation in 1979. of Robert Rohrer times. He doesn't believe That's the consensus of Strasburg proclaimed 1978 (Turn to Page 26) Global egg situation viewed

By KENDACE BORRY — The LANCASTER its effects on egg producers in Lancaster County, even though their eggs are seldom exported, according to

Hendrik Wentink, assistant to the president of Pennfield said, dealing with the diet-Corporation, Lancaster; and worldwide egg situation has "chairman of the National Commission on Egg Nutrition, Arlington, Va.

> Around the world, there is a "great controversy", he heart cholesterol issue.

Ten to 15 years ago, he explained, it was almost a foregone conclusion that too much cholesterol would increase the chances

(Turn to Page 27)

Tobacco being purchased

By DIETER KRIEG

LANCASTER - Tobacco buyers are visiting farmers again now, offering between 60 and 70 cents per pound for a crop which is generally being described as good to very good.

According to one growerbuyer, about a tenth of Lancaster County's crop has been bought, as buyers were just getting started this week to inspect the local crop. The Maryland type tobacco, however, was purchased in early November. Prices for those varieties reportedly ranged from 35 to 85 cents per pound, depending on quality and grading.

While some companies expect the farmer to sort his (Turn to Page 38)

Bomgardner sweeps 4-H round-up

By JOAN LIESAU LEBANON —

Jay Bomgardner, 19, captured both grand championship titles with his market hog and steer projects at the Lebanon County 4-H baby beef and market swine at the Lebanon County Fairgrounds.

Jay, the son of Victor and Anna Bomgardner, Annville R3, showed a 1265 pound Angus-Simmental-Hereford cross steer which was later round-up held December 27 sold to the Lebanon Valley National Bank. The steer sold for $1.06 per pound for a total of $1340.90.

His buddy steer, a 1050 pound Hereford-Simmental cross, placed second in its (Turn to Page 34)

In this issue

Farm Calendar Editorial Shapp vetoes ag bill Homestead Notes Jr. Cooking Edition Farm Women Calendar

Kendy's Kollumn Home on the Range Ida's Notebook

Joyce Bupp Pond restoration Classifieds

45 46 46

Lancaster Dilla 88 Cumberland DHIA Beef cattle feature 92 Dairy feature 96 48 111 50 Wood burner tips Life on the farm 53