

Foster grandparents sought

LANCASTER - Older people who enjoy working with children are being sought to be foster grandparents to disabled or disadvantaged children.

Foster grandparents are employed at day care centers, pediatric units of local hospitals, the S. June Smith Center, Elizabethtown Hospital for Crippled Children and other agencies throughout the city and county.

Each foster grandparent works four hours a day and provides individualized attention to disabled or disadvantaged children. Grandparents use their own characteristics of tenderness and love to help each child. Duties include reading, playing with the children, accompanying them to physical therapy or activities, and providing them with the love and attention they so desperately need. Grandparents will work a total of 20 hours per week and are paid a rate of $2.90 per hour.

In Lancaster County, the Foster Grandparent

Program is funded by the Lancaster Employment Training Consortium and administered jointly by the Consortium and the Lancaster County Office of Aging. The purpose of the program is to provide individuals 55 years of age and older with public service employment.

Eligibility for the program is determined by income and length of unemployment. Individuals must be unemployed for the past 10 of 12 weeks. A one-person family must have an income not exceeding $330 per month and a two-person family must have an income not exceeding $539 per month. Any senior citizen interested in the Foster Grandparent Program should contact Kay Rizzuto at the Office of Aging, 50 N. Duke Street, Lancaster, Pennsylvania (299-7979).
