USDA is predicting a heavy grasshopper infestation this Summer on many ranges in the West. Last year's grasshoppers laid a great number of eggs and spring weather will determine the survival rate. Cool, wet weather brings disease and fungus to young grasshoppers and cuts down on the number that survive.

USDA is working with ranchers and treatment programs will be launched when grasshoppers reach eight per square yard. Under the cooperative federal-state-rancher program, the cost of aerially treating private land is divided equally three ways.

latter complete with dormitories and dining facilities, are DER's Bureaus of State Parks and Forestry.

Also participating are the Pennsylvania Game Commission, the Pennsylvania Fish Commission and various local governments.

The Young Adult Conservation Corps is open to people of all social, economic and racial classifications, regardless of sex. To qualify they must be in the 16 to 23 years age bracket, unemployed, a citizen or lawfully admitted alien, and out of school. Short term Summer employment is not permitted.

Persons interested in the program are to contact their local Bureau of Employment Security Office.
