

Haas to serve on White House conference

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Congressman Bob Walker (R-16-PA) recently announced the appointment of Richard A. Haas of Lancaster, to serve as a delegate to the White House Conference on Small Business scheduled for January, 1980 in Washington, D.C.

Haas is the owner and operator of Cherry Hill Orchards, Lancaster R6, which, in addition to producing eggs, supplies a variety of fruits for the marketplace, including cherries, peaches, pears, apples, plums and nectarines.

The White House Conference on Small Business was created by President Carter in the spring of 1978 to evaluate the current status of the small business community and recommend changes in government policy for the 1980's. Toward that end, the White House Conference has scheduled at least one meeting in each of the 50 states in order to seek the views of small business men and women. At the end of each session, delegates to a national conference are elected.

Supplementing the list of delegates elected at state and regional sessions around the country, the President has invited each member of Congress and each Governor to nominate one additional delegate to attend the national meetings next January.

At the national White House Conference on Small Business, delegates will consider a series of options which have been developed from testimony at the preparatory meetings.

By the conclusion of the national session, participants will have adopted recommendations to be sent to the President which will outline reforms in legislation, Executive Department regulations and practices in the private sector which, if put into effect, would improve the climate for small business.

The White House Conference on Small Business is expected to be the largest Presidentially-sponsored in the nation's history, and the first to elect delegates to each of the 50 states.

Such a process of involving large numbers of small business men and women was chosen in order to adhere to President Carter's directive to invite the small business community to share in recommending policies that will significantly influence the future of small business endeavor in America."

In addition to those selected to serve as delegates to the national conference, more than 25,000 small business entrepreneurs throughout the country will have participated in the sessions by 1980.

PFA attains goal

CAMP HILL — The Pennsylvania Farmers Association, headquartered here, reports that it has attained and surpassed its 1979 membership goal. PFA is the largest farm organization in Pennsylvania and currently has 21,369 members. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation, the largest national farm group.

Persons interested in joining PFA should contact directors in their region, or the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, Box 736, 510 South 31st Street, Camp Hill, Pa. 17011.

Pennsylvania farmers rank first in the production of mushrooms and cigar leaf tobacco. Fourth in the production of apples, grapes, tart cherries and peaches. Fifth in the production of milk.

Now Is The Time

in the trunk of a car can be a fire hazard in case of an accident. The starting of a fire with gasoline or kerosene should not be done because of the great danger of an explosion; too many folks have already been injured because of this dangerous practice. Be careful when handling all types of fuel.

TO CHECK SWINE EFFICIENCY

If swine producers are going to continue profitable enterprises, they need to evaluate their feeding and management practices. It appears that costs are going to continue to be high but the market value of fat hogs will be sagging. Good management will be needed more than in recent years in order to make any profit. Worn-out feeders should be repaired or replaced; poor feeders can waste 20% of the feed. Hogs should be kept comfortable during hot weather; use fans and a mist or fogging system; they do not sweat the same as other animals and extra water will increase efficiency. The control of both internal and external parasites is also very important for efficient gains. Better check up on your swine practices in order to stay in business.

TO BE CAREFUL WITH PESTICIDE "EMPTIES"

An empty pesticide container at the wrong place can be about as dangerous as a full one. Many empty containers contain a small amount of residue that can kill people and livestock. Used containers should either be buried or put into trash cans for accepted disposal. The burning of empty containers is dangerous because of possible air pollution. In addition, empty containers should not be left lying around the premises. Children, pets, and livestock can get to them and be in trouble. Chemicals used in the proper manner can make a worthwhile contribution to modern agriculture. However, when mis-used or mis-handled they can be dangerous.
