

Carlisle Fair posts sheep show results

By KENDACE BORRY
CARLISLE — Sheep paraded before the judge last week as part of the Carlisle Fair's livestock show. Champions were chosen in several different breed divisions.

Judge Dan Dailey, Littlestown, picked David Bixler's ram and ewe as champions in that breed. The Carlisle R7 youth also showed the reserve champion ram. David Shultz, Mechanicsburg, exhibited the reserve champion Oxford ewe.

In the Cheviot division of the breeding classes, it was a clean sweep for Paul Wynn, Newburg R1, as he won the championships and reserve championships in both the ram and ewe division

All the Hampshire champion and reserve champion ribbons went home in the pocket of Steward Ebersole and Son, York R3, as those exhibitors dominated that competition.

Shropshire judging saw Charles and Barbara Platt, Gettysburg R3, take their rams to the champion and reserve champion spots in the show. Mrs. Frank Darcy, Fairfield R2, showed the champion and reserve champion ewe.

In Dorset competition, Suzie Gould, New Oxford R1, exhibited the champion ram, champion ewe, and reserve champion ram. Alan Bixler showed the reserve champion ewe.

Diane Keefauver, Newville R1, showed the champion Suffolk ram E. Richard Eberts, of the same address, showed the reserve champion ram as well as the champion ewe and reserve champion ewe.

In the market lamb 4-H competition, Craig Modny showed the lightweight first placing lambs. In the heavyweight class, first place went to Sharon Hock

Pat Silsby, representing the Carlisle Farm Credit Office, presents Alan Bixler with his trophies as he was named champion in both the junior fitting and showmanship class.

Charles and Barbara Platt, Gettysburg R3, exhibited the champion Shropshire ram, as well as the reserve champion. They also had the champion ewe and reserve champion ewe.

Steward Ebersole and Son, York R3, showed the champion Hampshire ram and ewe. They also captured the reserve championships in the breed competition.

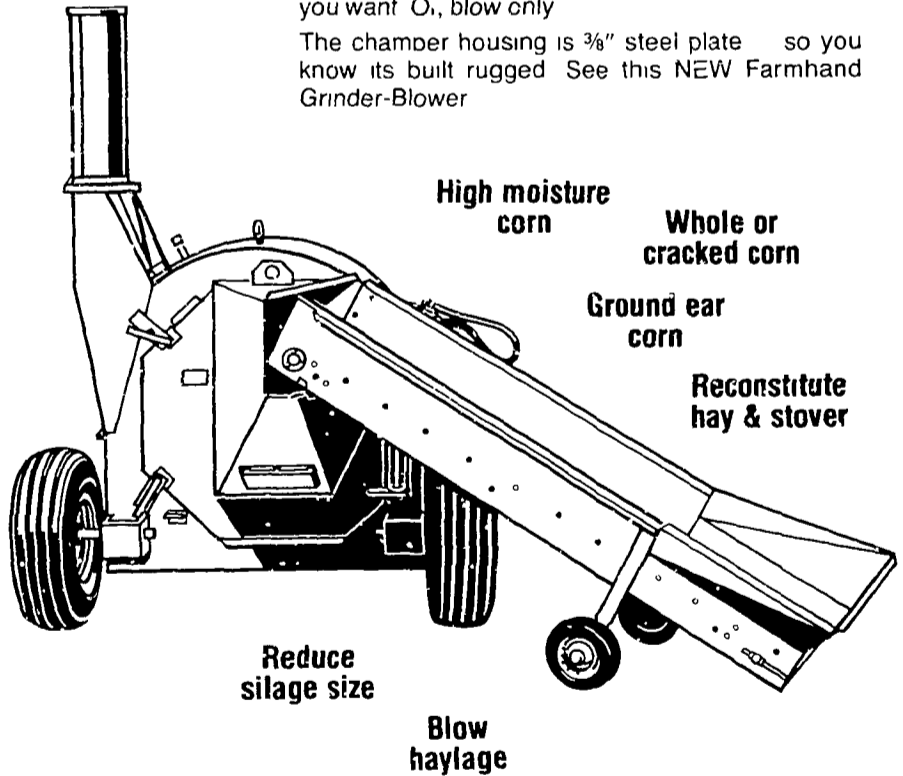

Paul Winn, seen on the left, made a clean sweep in the Cheviot division, winning all championship ribbons with his animals.
