

Here are evening events at Farm Show

HARRISBURG — A highlight of any visit to the Farm Show is a trip to the large arena for evening entertainment.

Monday night, January 7 is Secretary of Agriculture's Night, with events starting at 7:30 P.M.

Many different types of entertainment will be offered to the visitor, including a bluegrass/comedy band, the Contemporary Singers from the Central Penn Business School, two Future Farmers of America oratorical champions, the winners of the National Grange talent contest, and performances from dairy princesses like Eileen Shull, the 1980 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess.

The Zembo Mounted Patrol will also provide a display of precision drill to top off the evening.

Master Farmers' Night is Tuesday evening, with events starting at 6:15 p.m. The annual Future Farmers of America Band Concert leads off the program, followed by the Folk Dance Festival and Contest at 7:30. The Folk Dance Festival is the largest square dance contest in the nation, annually featuring 480 contestants.

Wednesday night visitors will be greeted by the sight of magnificent draft horses straining at the reins as they attempt to beat each other in the Horse Pulling Contest, beginning at 4:30 p.m. Competition will take place in both lightweight and heavyweight divisions, with a six-horse hitch demonstration during the intermission.

Thursday night is another night for horse and pony lovers, as action kicks off at 6 p.m. with a horse and pony demonstration by the Cumberland County 4-H Horse and Pony Club. The second annual Pony Pulling Contest, a huge success in its first edition last year, will follow.

"We are pleased with the variety of events and entertainment at the Show this year," State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hollowell noted. "There is something for everyone, from toddlers to great-grandparents in the arena. And whether your taste runs from music to the intense competition of thousand-pound horses, or nightly programs should be a fitting way to top off a day at the Farm Show."

The great variety of evening entertainment, along with daily livestock judging, makes the large arena a place to be during Farm Show Week, January 6-11. Parking for the 1980 Farm Show is available on the 60-acre lot adjacent to the complex. Admission is free and no tickets are needed.

Janice Kaylor, Elizabethtown, exhibited the Junior champion Charolais heifer at last year's Farm Show.
