Ten grain studies proposed

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Ten grain standardization studies are proposed for 1980, the U.S. Department of Agriculture announced.

The Federal Grain Inspection Service invites the grain trade and interested individuals to submit comments on suggested standardization priorities.

FGIS proposes to:

—Investigate inspection procedures for field testing of alpha amylase in wheat, uniform allowances for weevily grain, reporting dockage percentages, and certifying organic acid-treated grain;

—Review the U.S. Standards for beans, hay and straw, and mixed grain; and —Investigate the need for introducing standards for buckwheat, sunflower and rapeseed.
