

Kris Shutt crowned 1980 Pa. Apple Queen

BY SHEILA MILLER
HERSHEY — Kristel Shutt, a bubbly seventeen year old from Adams County, was selected to represent Pennsylvania's apple industry for 1980. Kris is the daughter of Earl and Joyce Shutt, Ortanna. She is a senior at Gettysburg High School where she is quite an active student. While maintaining a 4.0 average, the new Pa. Apple Queen is also editor and chief of her school newspaper. She also serves as chairman of the yearbook committee and is a member of the art club, pep club and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

In her spare time, Kris helps her parents on their farm, where they raise apples and cherries. She says she helps to prune and pick the fruit, especially the "drops", under her father's watchful eye.

Kris will be representing Pennsylvania's apple industry as she completes her final year in high school and while she begins her college education. She hopes to become involved in social work.

Kris is one of seven contestants who anxiously awaited the judges' decisions during the Tuesday evening ceremonies at the 121st State Horticultural Association meeting.

Representing their respective counties were: Nancy Kupetz, Chester-Delaware; Sherry Winters, Franklin; Karen Markey, York; Kelly Ann Daughtry, Berks; Sandra Gooding, Lancaster; and Joyce Long, Erie.

The Maryland Apple Queen for 1980 was introduced during the evening's festivities. Cynthia Caughull, of Joppa, Maryland, was crowned by last year's queen, Carol Butler.

Cindy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Caughull, and a senior at John Carroll High School.

The new Maryland Apple Queen has worked in an orchard for two years. Some of her duties included selling and grading fruit, thinning peaches, and directing customers in the pick-your-own program.

Cindy's school days are filled with participating in school plays, serving as secretary-treasurer of the drama club, and playing the flute in the high school band.
