

What do you call farmers who make hay instead of haylage?

Making Harvestore® system haylage is more profitable. Easier too. When you make Harvestore system haylage you get your crop out of the field a day or two earlier, when it's at 40% to 50% moisture, before it has a chance to get spoiled by rain. And better yet, you make haylage without the back-breaking labor required to make hay.

More feed value. Less purchased protein.

A big problem with making hay is it has to be dried to the point where the protein-rich leaves become brittle and easily break off. But, when you make haylage with the Harvestore system, you are able to harvest more of your crop's protein value. This is the reason supplement bills can be drastically reduced. More time for you. More time for your family, too.

Perhaps, the nicest thing about the Harvestore system is it gives you more time to do more important things — like managing your business and enjoying your family.

With the Harvestore system, you load at the top and unload from the bottom. You can refill your structure anytime without a feeding interruption. You can put one forage crop right on top of another yet the change is gradual when you feed. You know how important this is if you have ever had a big drop in milk production due to an abrupt ration change.

Good service today. And tomorrow.

It's important to remember your Harvestore system dealer backs every product sold with factory-trained installation and service crews...all have service trucks stocked with quality parts. That's something to think about before you make any long-term investment.

Buy or lease.

Now, you can lease a Harvestore system. Ask your Harvestore system dealer for more details. For some farmers, leasing can be more profitable.
