spoke on handling new feeder pigs and finishing health problems.

Gene Isler, an animal scientist from Ohio State University, gave suggestions on sow selection and culling. And two agricultural engineers covered methane gas generation from manure and solar energy in swine housing.

Many of the women attending the Keystone Congress were involved with the Porkette program. They heard from the National Pork Queen, Ann Starr, and had demonstrations on preparing their favorite meat in different ways.

A lard recipe contest not only provided delicious goodies for the Congress participants to taste, but the monies collected from the contest will go to heart research and porcine valves.

Instructions on how to do cardio-pulmonary resuscitation was an educational part of their program.

During their banquet on Wednesday evening, the Pork Producers honored Robert C. Hall, R1 Julian, Centre County. Hall was selected as the outstanding 4-H swine producer.

Hall, a member of 4-H for eight years, helps his father on their 112 acre farm. They raise 250 to 300 hogs in their farrow to finish operation, along with thirty purebred Yorkshire sows.

Curt Shreiner, the Pennsylvania Pork Cook-Out King, was recognized for his outstanding contributions and promotional efforts.

Dwight Younkin, a Penn State Extension animal scientist was selected as the outstanding man of the year.

Younkin has served as an Extension specialist since 1953. He received his degree in animal husbandry from Penn State in 1951, and while at Penn State was a member of the Block and Bridle Club, the livestock judging team, Phi Kappa Phi, and Gamma Sigma Delta.

He was honored by the swine producers of the state for his contributions to the industry through swine breeding, feeding, and related activities.

After accepting his genuine pigskin jacket, Younkin stated that he enjoyed working with the producers — but all he did was just sit back and let them go.

It was said that through Younkin's foresight the first

Pork Congress was held. And with the success and turn out for the second annual event, there's sure to be another next year.

THINK OF IT AS A GLASS OF WATER THAT WON'T BREAK OR GO DRY.

Simple, bright ideas make Shenandoah products better. Like our valves and troughs. For proper dependable watering, the valve simply has to work full time. So our highly sensitive water level control makes sure the water doesn't go down. And fewer moving parts mean there's less chance of it breaking down. Then there are the little differences we build in like heavy duty frames and stainless steel troughs that make our waterers so durable. And your job so easy.

At Shenandoah, we make the best products we possibly can. And that's a bright idea.
