

Milk orders, USDA hit by milk reform group

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. — National Association for Milk Marketing Reform President Martin Schanback, testified last week before the U.S. Department of Agriculture Committee hearings in Binghamton, New York.

broad questions related to agricultural cooperatives, the food industry and our government agripolicies. He called on Congress to examine the real problems of the dairy industry and to act on those issues that affect all of the dairy industry. Schanback particularly questioned over-order premium pricing above Federal Order prices. He asked, "Are these prices obtained through abuse of market power, in regulated markets to cover higher overhead costs, marketing mistakes, inefficient operations, overbuilt facilities and membership or merger activities, which have eliminated competitors? Schanback criticized the Department of Agriculture for failing to hold hearings to investigate the need for revising Federal Milk Order No. 2 to reflect the huge increases in transportation costs.
