Marion Alsdorf, Crawford County, was chosen as the new vice president. Samuel Minor, Washington County, was re-elected treasurer.

Business sessions began Friday morning with the annual banquet running Friday night.

An awards breakfast was slated for Saturday morning.

Hotel owner Al Monvo did an excellent job of publicizing the Holstein meeting.

Adult farmers set calf management session

TERRE HILL — The Adult Farmer Program of the Eastern Lancaster School District will sponsor a Dairy Calf Management meeting on Wednesday evening, February 27 at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Grove School.

Speakers for the evening will be Dr. Warren Piersol, veterinarian, and Robert Gregory, Pennfield Feed Corp. Dr. Piersol and

The sale was packed with Pittsburgh news cameramen, brought to the convention site by publicity generated by the innkeeper.

And Monvo seemed to get a kick out of flying them around in his personal helicopter giving them fast transportation, and presenting unique photographic opportunities.

At one point he even bid on a Holstein calf, apparently intending to put it in a small barn he has at the hotel parking lot.

That barn was used to house some animals during the sale.

Gregory will be discussing the many aspects of calf management to include disease prevention and treatment, feeding and housing.

Interested persons are invited to attend the Dairy Calf Management Meeting to be held at the Union Grove School on Wednesday evening February 27 at 7:30 p.m.

PFA membership rally continues

LANCASTER — Lancaster County's Pennsylvania Farmers' Association has rallied 85 new members for the organization, according to Don Ranck, membership chairman.

Signing up new members and renewing former members is part of the ongoing membership rally going on at the county level in PFA.

Ranck noted the current number of members totals 1287, which is 14 less than the number of members last year. It also represents 79 short of the five per cent increase goal that was set by the local committee last Fall.

On a statewide basis, Eugene Thompson, state PFA president, announced a record number of farm families have joined the organization. At the present time, there are 22,217 family members for 1980.

This figure surpasses the old record set in 1979 with 21,724 members. And, Thompson noted, the campaign is not finished.

Thompson said the reason for the growth could be attributed to the farmers' awareness of forces outside the farm that threaten their way of life and business.

All air-cooled engines are NOT created equal

ASK ABOUT STAUFFER'S 5-YEAR ENGINE HEAD AND BLOCK WARRANTY

It's easier to call an engine "heavy duty" than it is to build it that way. Many carburated "heavy duty" industrial engines simply don't deserve the title. They consume expensive fuel at an alarming rate they are prone to break down or overheat and their life expectancy is measured in hundreds of hours. If any engine in the world qualifies as heavy duty, it's Deutz. Deutz engines are often chosen to power equipment with unit price tags over half a million dollars — that's heavy duty.

When it comes to cooling efficiency, the Deutz precision-engineered axial-flow cooling air blowers have no equal. This direct approach to cooling (without collants, additives, cavitation) means our engines need only about 60% of the air volume liquid-cooled engines require. Combustion efficiency is greatly improved by higher head temperatures and engine life is extended by cooler oil temperatures.

If you think air-cooled engines are prone to overheat, talk to Deutz users in the scorching heat of the Imperial or San Joaquin valleys. There, Deutz engines deliver more than 20,000 hours of trouble-free service before a major overhaul.

There are lots of things that separate Deutz engines from water-cooled and other air-cooled engines. Things like blower design, big lube oil coolers, oil-cooled pistons, special alloy cylinder heads, a research and development team of more than 1,000 engineers. These are all important advantages. Still we say: If you can find an engine that uses less fuel than a Deutz — buy it.
