Equipment Exposition, with the sale held the following day.

The grand champion Yorkshire gilt went on to be the top selling swine at the Saturday sale, bringing $550. The buyer of LLA9 Sandra 62-2 was Marlin Martin, Smithsburg, Md.

Martin also purchased the reserve champion open gilt, and the grand and reserve grand bred gilts. He said he bought them for his sons, Kenlin, Kevin, and Kraig, for their 4-H projects. Martin, himself, is a dairy farmer, milking 40 head of Holsteins.

The reserve champion open gilt was a Duroc, exhibited and consigned by Clyde W. McConaughy, Jr. of R1 Smicksburg.

Prospector RD Lady 5 3-10 was purchased by Martin for $420.

In the bred gilt classes, a spotted swine shown and

You can't improve on this year's profits with yesterday's hybrids.

I've got the new hybrids you need to stay ahead.

Genetically engineered to outyield others, by enough to make a difference when you're fighting for every last dollar of profit.

That's what you'd expect from Funk's, The World Yield Leader. And Funk's researchers have developed a base for new, even better-yielding hybrids. They're working on more ways to fight corn diseases, too.
