BY SHEILA MILLER
NEW TRIPOLI — The livestock judging teams from York County swept both the Junior and Senior competition at the contest held on Tuesday here at Snyder Lehigh Farms.

In the Senior division, Team 1 from York County took home the high team plaque, setting the scene for some tough rivalry at next year's competition.

The plaque, which travels with the high placed team, will be kept by the team that wins it three years. With Tuesday's win, the York team has tied the score at two wins apiece with Lehigh County, who won the honors in 1978 and 1979. The previous York County win was in 1977.

York County's Brenda Walter was the high scoring individual in the Senior competition, with team mate LeRoy Bowles placing tops in beef judging.

Diane Krause, from Lehigh County, ranked highest in the presentation of oral reasons, and was tops in sheep judging in the Senior contest.

Eileen Fairbairn, from the Chester County Senior team, came in first in placing and talking the swine class.

York County Juniors were high scoring in both the beef and sheep classes. Tim Kinsley was high in beef judging, with team mate Susan Janney coming in first in sheep.

How many calves did you lose last year?

Fiberdome
CALFhutches

Raising calves is a tricky business. That's why modern calf raisers are going to individual hutches to help save more calves by cutting down on pneumonia, scours and hoof problems. Properly made hutches help eliminate the dampness, crowding and poor ventilation that plague many calf barns.

You can be assured of this kind of healthier environment with Fiberdome CALFhutches. Their unique one-piece construction of heavy gauge fiber glass makes them weatherproof, so they will last indefinitely with normal care. No joints for moisture and bacteria to creep through. A white gel-coat finish keeps them cool in summer.

When not in use, stakes can be removed and strong U-bolts on top let you conveniently pick units up to clean or stack for compact storage.
