The Air System With A Mind Of Its Own

Until now, most ventilation systems had one drawback. Air inlets had to be opened and closed by hand.

This was time consuming — and pretty much a matter of guesswork.

Now, Chore-Time has eliminated this problem.

The Chore-Time system has a mind of its own and adjusts inlets — in conjunction with fan operation — to maintain air pressure at a constant, preset level.

This provides a degree of air and moisture accuracy never before possible in poultry and livestock buildings.

The new inlet control (pictured) is just one of many exclusive features that make Chore-Time air systems number one in performance and reliability.

Four basic components go into the makeup of this ventilation system: the fan, the inlet, the air inlet power pack, and the controls. Coordinated, these four basic components can provide you with better conversion and performance by removing stresses due to lack of oxygen, excess humidity, noxious gases and temperature extremes.

Reliability through simplicity, Chore-Time's advanced air system provides automatic control of incoming fresh air, moisture and heat for productive environmental control in agricultural buildings.

The result is year-around, day-in and day-out comfort for your animals.

Three top crop insurance officials relieved of duties

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Deputy Secretary of Agriculture Jim Williams last Thursday relieved three top officials of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation of their duties and responsibilities and placed them on administrative leave pending completion of an investigation.

The three are: James D. Deal, manager of the corporation; W. Otto Johnson, deputy manager; and Roy L. Alton, assistant manager for administrative management.

Williams received an interim report from USDA inspector general Thomas F. McBride about the status of an investigation which began April 14 into allegations of improper personnel conduct and personnel practices in the agency.

Contents of the interim report pertain to the continuing investigation and will not be disclosed until the investigation is complete, Williams said.

Pending final disposition of the investigation, Williams appointed acting officials to assume responsibilities and duties of the agency. They are:

Everett Sharp, now head of actuarial services, Kansas City, Mo., to be acting manager.

Roland Wentzel, now special assistant to the undersecretary for international affairs and commodity programs, to be acting deputy manager.
