YORK — Peter King's perennially favorite 4-H cow earned him several more awards for his impressive collection when she took senior and grand champion honors at the York Black and White Show last Friday.

Montvalley Happy Maple, a five-year-old that King has shown for several years in both 4-H and open competition, won her aged cow class and best udder designation among the aged category. A Citation R

Maple daughter, she was bred by Arthur Morrison.

It was a satisfying day all around for Pete's family, the Paul Kings of Kingway Holsteins at Delta, who also won the coveted premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners. In addition, Paul took a first in the three-year-old class with a homebred daughter from both a homebred sire and dam, and daughter Lesley's 4-H Marvex heifer topped the senior yearling class.

All the King's include wife Kathy and son David are active in registered Holstein circles, and Paul serves on the state board's executive committee. Kingway's herd includes fifty registered milking animals, with a current DHIA rolling herd average of 16,700 pounds of milk and 660 of fat, with a classification BAA of 106.

Beshore Farms of New Cumberland exhibited the reserve senior and grand champion, "Chamberland-Dall Horthy." The deep-bodied four-year-old took first place udder in her class and is a daughter of Romandale Dividend Performer. She was bred by Clifford Chamberland.

Junior champion was

Bridgette Boyer's junior calf, "Sunnybend Fresca Valiant Kit B," got judge Cornman's nod for the reserve junior rosette. A growthy and sharp January calf by S-W-D Valiant, she was bred by Thomas Boyer.

Chairman for the show was Larry Rinehart of East Berlin, and Shirley Trimmer, East Berlin, was in charge of catalogs and entries. Others on the show committee were Mike Stewart of Airville and Phil Laughman of Thomasville.
