

Your milking system can only be as efficient as the vacuum system behind it.

That's because your vacuum system provides the very heartbeat of your entire milking system. When it's inefficient, you're inefficient.

In the last few years, the dairy industry has compiled a great deal of new information on just how critical proper vacuum and air movement are to milking time, production, and herd health. They found vacuum pumps have to be large enough to have adequate vacuum reserve. They found vacuum lines have to be much larger than originally thought necessary.

And they found that vacuum controls need to be far more efficient and placed properly if vacuum stability is to be maintained.

That's why it's so important to know exactly what kind of vacuum performance you're getting at teat end. That also explains why so many dairymen have installed dependable, high capacity Alamo vacuum systems from Surge.

Surge Alamo pumps are available in 5 different sizes. All come equipped with large oil reservoirs and continuous lubrication systems that separate used oil and exhaust from fresh oil. This protects your pump and helps it run cooler. Alamo pumps also feature exclusive filtered air intake; exclusive two-year motor warranties; and quieter, cleaner operation. And those are only some of the features that set Alamo apart.

Surge also offers the Equalizer II vacuum controller; a high efficiency unit to make sure you get maximum vacuum stability. So never make the mistake of assuming your vacuum system is working the way it should. Call your Surge dealer and make sure.
