

Sussex names extension home economist

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Sarah (Sally) Roberts Foulke has been named Extension Home Economist for Sussex County, according to Dr. Samuel M. Gwinn, director of the Delaware Extension Service.

Foulke received her B.S. in home economics education from Temple University and her M.S. from the department of individual and family studies, College of Human Resources, University of Delaware.

Foulke has had extensive experience as a professional home economist. She has served as a research associate in social gerontology, as a home economist with the Appalachian Power Company, and as center director for the Arden Y.W.C.A. and program director for the Newark Y.W.C.A.

She has served as an instructor at Wesley College, Dover, and Delaware State College, Dover. Her previous experience also includes the position of camping advisor with the Camden County Girl Scout Council.

Foulke is a member of the American Home Economics Association, National Council on Family

Sally Foulke

Relations, the Delaware Academy of Sciences, and is a member of the Board of the Delaware Gerontological Society.

She is the recipient of the American Agricultural Foundation Achievement Award for outstanding work in home economics.

Foulke's duties in Sussex County will include planning, implementing and evaluation of Extension educational programs in the area of home economics; working with, and serving as advisor to, the Sussex County Extension Homemakers' Council; and establishing cooperative program efforts with other organizations and agencies working with Sussex County families.

Her office will be located at the University of Delaware Substation in Georgetown.
