The satisfaction that comes from doing a good job of farming

It's a great feeling to know that you are the master of your farmlands . . . that when you treat your soil right, it will treat you right. Liming is one of the most important factors in keeping your soil in the highest productive range. A good pasture with a pH of 6.5 or higher, for example, will make 300 to 400 lbs. of beef per acre and produce up to $100 gross income per acre. This means with the help of lime, profits from pastures can compare favorably with feed or grain crops.

Alfalfa production to be forage conference feature

HERSHEY — Alfalfa research in the 1980's and challenges in seed production will be topics discussed during the 1980 Forage Conference scheduled for November 24 and 25 at the Hershey Convention Center, Hershey. Registration will be held from 9 a.m. to noon on November 24 at the Convention Center, points out John E. Baylor, extension agronomist at Penn State. The program will conclude at 4 p.m. on November 25.

The Monday afternoon program will center on the theme, "Alfalfa, Queen of the Forages."

Speakers include A.A. Hanson, director of research for Waterman-Louomis Co., who will discuss "Alfalfa-Challenges in the 1980's"; Audy S. Bell, manager of J.H. Boswell Co. in California, presenting "Alfalfa-Challenges in Seed Production"; and R.R. Hill, Jr. research agronomist at the Penn State U.S. Regional Pasture Laboratory, speaking on "Alfalfa Research in the Decade Ahead."

Also on the program will be Baylor and W.K. Waters, Penn State Extension farm management agent, who will discuss "Pennsylvania's Alfalfa Growers Program—What We've Learned in Production, Nutrient Uptake, and Production Costs."
