

Grange meeting

They favored a shift from real estate to local income taxes with an increase in the corporate net income tax to be rebated to local municipalities.

Grangers want the U.S. government to help pay nuclear reactor damages so the customer does not foot the whole bill.

They again supported a returnable bottle bill. They approved of short-term funding for mass transit, asked each county have a surveyor to enforce fence law, and want gross vehicle weights for pickup trucks be adjusted to allow a 'reasonable' load to be hauled upon application to a local authority.

All together, the Grangers acted on over 200 resolutions, including 90 legislative stands. That was the largest number of resolutions in recent memory.

Secretary of Agriculture Penrose Hallowell, addressing the Annual Banquet Wednesday evening, recounted the successes of the past year but warned that 1980-81 might not be as bright because of drought and economic problems.

Hallowell told Grangers they would have to look at marketing and then spoke of the coming milk promotion referendum.

He noted that milk receipts in the Commonwealth crossed the $1 billion mark and that milk output in the state is up five percent in the face of stiff competition.

The checkoff proposal being drawn up by the committee, now in its second draft, calls for a three-quarters of one percent checkoff, Hallowell said.

At present milk prices, that would be about nine cents per hundredweight, or a total of $6 million to $7 million dollars in a promotion kitty.

That represents 50 percent more money for promotion that currently is available.

"Why should consumers pay $1.09 a liter for colas when they can get a half gallon of milk for under $1?" he asked.

Hallowell also read a proclamation from the Governor's office congratulating the Grange on 108 years of service to the Commonwealth.

Newly elected State Grange Princess is Judy Paull, Uniontown, Fayette County; new State Prince is Dayton D. Mix, Shinglehouse, Potter County.

"If we are not doing what you want, it is your fault," Hallowell told the Grangers. "You are supplying the leadership."

Grangers honored a number of their own members. Past Pennsylvania Master and Past National Master John Scott was given a commemorative sash for his outstanding service.

The sash was presented by Maryland State Master C. Rodman Myers who was the national representative to the session.

Dayton D. Mix, Shinglehouse, Potter County, was named Grange Prince. Grange Princess for the year will be Judy Paull, Uniontown, Fayette County.

The Reifsnnyder family of Clearfield County cleaned up in the talent contest. Billie Jean Reifsnnyder won best individual honors after taking first place instrumental act; and the Robert Reifsnnyder family was named best of show following their first place performance in the family instrumental class.

Linda Strong, Warriors Mark, won the individual vocal award; Gladys Stucker, Susquehanna, won first place in variety acts.

Top family vocal group was Lou Schaffer, Ann Kein, and Althea Grim, Schnecksville.

Herman and Mary Handwerk, and Raymond and Beatrice Schmid, Schnecksville, were represented in the folk dance contest.

Kingwood Grange Quartet, Somerset County, and the Lawrence County Pomona, were lone entries in their classes.

Conferral of the sixth degree was led by Matthew Wismer, son of State Grange Master Charles Wismer.

Both candidates for U.S. Senate seats from Pennsylvania were to address the Grange.

Arlen Specter outlined a three-part farmland preservation program. His program calls for reductions in federal income taxes, reduction of capital gains tax, and an increase of the farm exemption of the federal estate tax.

In his address Tuesday he also spoke of the need for better roads and bridges.

Pete Flaherty was slated to speak Thursday afternoon. No representative of Flaherty showed up for the session.

State to move on aid for weather injured farms

HARRISBURG — Legislation aimed at providing state assistance to Pennsylvania farmers who have suffered extensive losses due to extreme weather conditions has been introduced in the House.

Noah Wenger, vice chairman of the Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, said the measure is an effort to help keep in business those farm families who have suffered serious losses due to floods in the western part of the state and drought in the eastern part.

Wenger co-sponsored the legislation which would "provide direct grants to farm operations covering up to 25 percent of their actual losses, up to a maximum grant of $5000.

"Farm losses this year in Pennsylvania are being predicted in the hundreds of millions of dollars, and the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture declared 26 eastern and central Pennsylvania counties as disaster areas for drought," Wenger said.

"State assistance can provide some relief for farmers who are unable to qualify for federal loan programs at reduced interest rates."

The Lancaster County legislator said the bill would provide direct grants to farmers suffering economic losses greater than $5000. He explained that the program would be over and above any other state and federal assistance program, excluding the Farmers

Home Administration emergency loan programs.

A total of $8 million would be appropriated.

"We hope to pass this measure in the remaining weeks of the current session," he said.

Classes set for junior dairy show

LITITZ — Class for the 1981 Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show were established at the advisory and executive committee meeting held last Friday. Classes will be the same for all breeds.

The recommended national PDCA base dates of March 1 and September 1 be used for all breeds.

The senior yearling in milk class was eliminated. There will be a junior 2 year-old-class and a senior 2-year-old class this year. There will also be a separate class for 3-year-olds and a separate class for 4-year-olds.

With the new base dates of March 1 and September 1, animals in each class will be two months younger than in past years. The senior yearling in milk class no longer seemed necessary with the younger age for the class. The classes adopted with the new ages are as follows:

Class	Born between
Junior calf	March 1, 1981 and May 31, 1981
Intermediate calf	December 1, 1980 and February 28, 1981
Senior calf	September 1, 1980 and November 30, 1980
Junior yearling	March 1, 1980 and August 31, 1980
Senior yearling	September 1, 1979 and February 29, 1980
Junior 2-year-old	March 1, 1979 and August 31, 1979
Senior 2-year-old	September 1, 1978 and February 28, 1979
3-year-old	September 1, 1977 and August 31, 1978
4-year-old	September 1, 1976 and August 31, 1977
5-years and over	Born before September 1, 1976
