

First time showman wins York-Adams lamb roundup

THOMASVILLE — First year 4-H'er Greg Bankert topped the York-Adams 4-H lamb roundup, held last Wednesday at the newly reopened Thomasville Livestock Market.

Greg's champion Dorset was a late spring lamb and weighed in at 105 pounds. Larry Orndorff of Orndorff's Livestock at McKnightstown held out to the final bid of $1.20 per pound to take the winning lamb home.

Greg is nine years old, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bankert, Hanover R3.

Orndorff Livestock then came back to bid last again, at $1.10 per pound, on the 105-pound reserve champion owned by Troy Ness of Dallastown R1. Troy's winning wether was a purebred Suffolk. He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ness.

Judge for the annual lamb roundup was Ken Brubaker. Total sales figure on the 45 roundup lambs came to $3410.95, with a per pound average of 81 cents.

Shane Seidenstrickler, York, topped his brother Neil in the crossbred division, with his 100-pound champion selling to Ehrhart Stained Glass at 87 cents per pound.

Adams Countian Eric Quanbeck of Fairfield exhibited the champion in the Columbia category. Orndorff Livestock paid 64 cents per pound for the 130-pound wether.

Orndorff also purchased the winning Corriedale, exhibited by Penny Erisman of Windsor. The animal weighed in at an even hundred pounds and final bid was 66 cents.

Beth Myers of Seven Valleys beat out Mark Ebaugh in the Shropshire category, with her 95-pound lamb. Jay's Supermarket purchased it for 90 cents. Lisa also showed the reserve champion.

In the Southdown division, Lisa Dobrosky of Glen Rock won both the champion and reserve spots. Buyer was Joe Lehman, Glen Rock, who paid 95 cents per pound for the winner. Other contenders in the Southdown show were Tammy Flory, Red Lion, Shelly Bankert, Hanover and Christina Kern, York

Troy Ness' Suffolks earned both top ribbons for the Dallastown competitor, with the champion animal than being named reserve grand winner.

Second in class I was Mike Arendt, Glen Rock, third was Tom Flory, Red Lion and Mike Arendt was fourth. Lisa Dobrosky placed second in Class II.

Champion Hampshire was shown by Tom Flory of Red Lion and sold to Richard Beck at 76 cents per pound for the 125-pound wether. Reserve winner was Judy Waltersdorff, York.

In Class I Kim Myers, Seven Valleys, placed second and Shelly Bankert, Hanover, was third. Don Ness beat out Mark Ebaugh in the Class II entries, and Judy Waltersdorff was second in Class II over Don Ness.

Dorset entries made up the largest class, topped by grand champion Greg Bankert. Reserve winner was Brian Bankert, Red Lion. Pam Jefferis topped Penny Erisman in Class I.

In the Class II weight division, it was Neil

Sidenstrickler, first, then Pam Jefferis, and John Muller. Brian Bankert's reserve won over Donna

Wilson, second and Greg Bankert, third, in Class II. Class IV went to champ Greg Bankert, topping

Laurie Dobrosky and Neil Seidenstrickler. Brian Bankert won Class V over Bev Eisenhart.—JB.

Larry Orndorff, Orndorff Livestock, purchased the champion 4-H market lamb from exhibitor Greg Bankert for $1.20 per pound.

The reserve champion 4-H market lamb was exhibited by Troy Ness, like the champ, it was purchased by Larry Orndorff, Orndorff Livestock.

THE NEWS IS SPREADING LIKE FIRE!

Migro Hybrids are rolling out high yields all across the corn belt and the news is traveling like a brush fire - so fast in fact, that we're now one of America's fastest growing seed companies...backed by research; respected by performance and winning enthusiastic acceptance from top farmers everywhere.

That's why we're proud to offer you a great line of high yielding corn hybrids for your area.

You'll be planting genetically superior seed backed by one of America's most extensive seed research programs - research conducted by North American Plant Breeders (NAPB).

Some of our highly recommended numbers are:

MIGRO M-2022X - This superb hybrid combines good stalk quality, excellent ear retention and good emergence for top yields year after year. Maturity range: 106-108 days. Adapted to wide range of soil types.

MIGRO HP-360 - (new) - Fights drought stress. Short statured hybrid with girthy-ear, has good root system and excellent stalk quality. Maturity 106-108 days.

MIGRO M-0707 - A yield champion. This girthy-eared full season 121-123 day hybrid is winning enthusiastic acceptance from corn growers throughout Southeastern PA and Maryland. What's more, M-0707 offers excellent root strength and stalk quality along with disease tolerance to both northern and southern corn leaf blight as well as anthracnose.

MIGRO M-6666 - Disease protection plus. This very popular full season hybrid has shown a high degree of disease resistance. Excellent standability and rugged enough to resist anthracnose and many other diseases - healthy right thru harvest. Offers a good root system and excellent ear retention capabilities.

MIGRO HP-470 - (new) Top yields - fast dry down. Introducing the high yielding hybrid that gets you rollin early. New HP-470 is a mid season 111-113 day hybrid that offers the best of both worlds to corn growers - top yields and fast dry down. Features good emergence and strong stalks and roots for a healthy jump on yields.
