Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Our home is inundated with papers. We have a flood of over a dozen magazines arriving each month and five newspapers. These periodicals are all farm related except for one magazine from our church. Finding time to read them is a real challenge. Many of them look brand new when I finally take time to sort them and discard the outdated ones. One often wishes there was someone to give them to that would appreciate them. Recently, the mailman has been putting many letters, brochures and catalogues from colleges all over the country into our mailbox. Ever since Cindy was notified of her place in the National Merit Scholarship competition, they've been arriving thick and fast. Many of them are glossy booklets extolling the virtues of a particular college or university. I'm sorry to say that some of them go unopened as they are simply too distant from Lancaster, Pa. We have learned from experience that the travel between home and college is important. When a child is out of state then you can expect to only see them on holidays and semester breaks, if then. Even our son at Penn State threatens to buy a motorcycle so he will have wheels to come home weekends and help on the farm. When we visited a college in Delaware last week, we were given an extensive tour of the beautiful campus. It was interesting to hear some of the questions that new parents of college-age children asked and to see them crowd into a dormitory room to inspect it. As Cindy is the sixth child we are sending away to college, we feel like we've already been "through the mill."
